

Abstract of the Disclosure

A facsimile apparatus, includes a radio unit, a display unit and a print unit. The radio unit communicates with a terminal apparatus which can receive one of an electronic mail data and the Internet data. The display unit displays a first portion of one of the electronic mail data and the Internet data received by the radio unit from the terminal apparatus. The print unit prints a second portion other than the first portion of the one of the electronic mail data and the Internet data received by the radio unit from the terminal apparatus. The second portion is not displayed by the display unit.

TELETYPE